

Raspy Berries No Panties

The tongue in cheek music video "No Panties" encourages you to take advantage of the opportunity of alone time during the pandemic.

The up-coming band Raspy Berries' debut music video "No panties" invites us to celebrate the joy of our own company! In the music video, drag queen Donatella Discount takes the viewers on an escapist pleasure journey, reminding them of the adventurous aspect of exploring oneself and our own sexuality.

"No panties" is an alternative soul song about self-love in an emotional as well as a physical sense. In a time with the consensus that sex is good and healthy, but with demands of social distance, sex-positive "No Panties" encourages you to explore and play with your own identity expression and sexuality - in your own space.

The overall sound of the band Raspy Berries (consisting of Ida Kæraa Lücke and Asta Dea Nistad Evensen) is experimental and minimalistic soul.

Juicy and delicious as a berry and raw and intimate as a raspy voice of a young woman who, late at night, reflects upon all spectrums of identity and social inequalities.

The music video is the result of an artistic collaboration between Raspy Berries and drag queen Donatella Discount (Nikolas Kjer Welander), who is the main character in the music video's narrative.

The raw and juicy intimacy is further unfolded in the music video through drag queen Donatella Discount's self-loving, hyper-feminine and campy performance. "No panties" manages to strike a balance between lavish, glamorous fantasy and intimate relatability. It is the unpolished and honest sexuality that you put on a big show for- for your own sake! The viewer gets invited to join Donatella Discount in a hedonistic and highly aesthetic universe, lined with red velour, glitter and body fluids - a place where self-worship is limitless. Donatella has a private party at home in the living room and the music video's DIY-style inspires the viewer to live out the big fantasy, despite being at home. Through a dreamy play with identity, Donatella Discount ends up with a reflection in the mirror, which she loves herself.

The cross-aesthetic collaboration between music and drag in the music video "No Panties" encourages you to question society's definitions of identity and to have a fabulous party with yourself!

Titel of music video:
No Panties

Band:
Raspy Berries

Date of release:
30 March 2021